Resilience in Action: Women Workers Lead the Way

For years, Midwest working women have gathered at the Midwest School for Women Workers Conference to learn, share experiences, and build collective power for workplace and social change. This year, MSWW returns –hosted by the UW-Madison School for Workers in recognition of the department’s 100 year anniversary.

The 2025 agenda will address today’s most pressing challenges:

Rebuilding worker strength, confronting systemic failures, applying labor history lessons to the present, and more.
